ON POINT ALL SUMMER

It has been quite a summer so far here at Hawkeye. We loved hosting the Outdoor Texas Camps again as they instilled outdoor skills, ethics, and safety to the next generation of hunters. It's great to welcome back so many repeat summer guests and to see new groups enjoying all we have to offer during our off-season. We've been hard at work prepping fields, planting, burning, and making upgrades and repairs where necessary. And we started construction on a new shop building that will allow us to be more efficient in all aspects of work here at Hawkeye for years to come.

However, we have had our share of setbacks as well. Damage from a powerful series of thunderstorms in June followed by damage from the remnants of Hurricane Beryl has kept our crews more than busy with repairs and clean-up. We are very blessed to have been able to remain 100 percent open. As we push through the last stages of clean-up, our thoughts and prayers are with those throughout Texas who suffered heavy storm damage and losses.

Summer School at Hawkeye

While our hunting gear sits idle and our guides are focusing on warm weather work and activities, our dogs are still hard at work doing what they love. Keeping our dogs engaged, focused, and in shape is not easy in the summer heat. Working early mornings and late evenings helps keep the dogs from overheating and keeps them ready to work to bring in full bag limits for our guests in the fall. Our trainer, Bryan, along with help from long-time Hawkeye guide Steve, continues working on training new dogs, polishing up the skills on our old favorites, and keeping up with health checks, grooming, and hot weather kennel care. This off-season effort and dedication pays dividends all winter long.

BY THE NUMBERS:

Our New Shop is Under Construction

01

Work began with the demolition of our old kennels that had been standing on-site for 40 years.

02

All useable material was salvaged, and the old concrete pad was broken up and reused to rip-rap stream culverts on property.

03

The site, which originally sloped for drainage, was brought up to level grade.

04

Concrete work followed and work will soon begin on the steel installation.
